City offering loans with no interest

$50,000 set aside for program

By Bob Slate

Staff writer

Are your water pipes frozen? Did the recent cold weather make you realize that the 25-year-old furnace in your basement won't generate enough heat to melt an ice cube?

Then the city has a program for you.

Mayor Ron Selph has set aside $50,000 of Granite City's Community Development Block Grant funds allocation for an emergency rehabilitation, zero percent deferred payment loan program. But the loan is really more like a grant — there is no interest charged on the money borrowed and the funds do not have to be repaid until the home is sold. A lien is placed on the property and any amount owed will be collected when the property is sold.

"This is an excellent opportunity for those who have had problems associated with the cold weather who might not otherwise be able to make repairs," Selph said.

Up to $2,500 is available per household. That figure can be increased if an exceptional need is shown, Selph said. "The best part about it is you don't have to pay it back until the home is eventually sold," he said.

The catch? The only limitation is that the home in question is owner-occupied and that the household income of the loan applicant falls within "low-moderate" income guidelines.

For a single-person household, applicants must make $24,900 or less annually to qualify. That figure increases to $28,500 for a two-person family; $32,050 for three people; $35,600 for a family of four; $38,450 for a five-person household; $41,300 for six; $44,150 for seven; and $47,000 for eight.

When the loan is eventually repaid, those funds return to the loan pool for future loans.

Those interested in applying for a loan should contact David Williams, the city's neighborhood improvement coordinator, at 452-8216.

Thieves like restaurant sign

Jack's back.

He's gone. No, he's back again.

Apparently, someone in Granite City has kidnapped Jack.

Jack-in-the-Box restaurants have begun a major nationwide advertising campaign touting the chain's "founder," a clown named Jack.

But the advertising campaign may have become too popular — at least in Granite City.

Danny Reagan, manager at the Jack-in-the-Box restaurant at 3330 Nameoki Road, said that someone stole a picture of "Jack" over the Christmas holidays not long after he posted the sign.

Reagan ordered another one and put it up. It too was gone in a matter of days.

A third picture of Jack has been posted. Reagan has ordered several more from the corporate

Woman was ready to send $1,200

Cashier thwarts con artist

By Bob Slate

Staff writer

An elderly Granite City woman will not lose $1,200 to a con man in Georgia thanks to the observations and persistence of a Schnucks grocery store cashier.

Virginia Apperson, the cashier, refused to send a "money-gram" for the elderly woman last week. The elderly woman was unknowingly the intended victim of a con artist who believes is operating in Atlanta. She received several telephone calls last week informing her that she was the winner of a $37,000 cash prize. All the intended victim needed to do to receive the jackpot was send $1,200 to cover expenses and taxes.

"I was asking the usual questions, like who would be receiving the money and if he had a driver's license or photo I.D., and (the intended victim) couldn't answer. She told me she had never met the man," Apperson said.

"I asked her why she was sending that much money to someone she didn't even know. When she told me why, I refused to send the money-gram."

The suspect had called the victim twice and also called (Schnucks). This shows that this is a pressure-type scam and the callers can be very demanding of their elderly victims."

Nonetheless, the would-be victim was certain she was the real winner of the cash prize — even though she had sent money last month and was then told she did not win.

"She was convinced it was a legitimate contest. She may never talk to me again," Apperson said.

Det. Sgt. Jeff Parker of the Granite City Police Department said the operation is similar to other "awards company" scams in that the caller wanted the cash up front.

He said con artists often suggest the use of "money-grams" because the sender gives the receiver a code number and the cash can be picked up without the possibility of a trace.

"If anyone has been contacted for large prize awards, please contact me," Parker said.

Apperson said that the con artist called the elderly woman at home after she refused to send the money-gram.

"He put someone on the line who said it was his son. He said his father was having a heart attack because she wouldn't send the money," Apperson said.

Testimony conflicts in Crouch trial

By Bob Slate

Staff writer

In testimony Monday in Madison County Circuit Court, Beverly Partney depicted the last several months of life with Mike Crouch as a series of fights — saying that at one point last year when he allegedly threatened to "blow her brains out," she encouraged him to do so and she encouraged him of my misery."

But Fred Shafer, an acquaintance of Crouch and Partney, said under oath that Partney connected a story about a battery allegedly inflicted on her by Crouch last July 12. He testified that Partney only wanted Crouch to move back in with her and that she said she would have his job if he didn't.

Hospital calls problems minor

By Bob Slate

Staff writer

St. Elizabeth Medical Center President Ted Ellerman says he is not concerned that a recent health department visit that found a couple of areas of concern will jeopardize the hospital's accreditation.

"The recommendations made by (the Illinois Department of Public Health) are not a major concern. The corrective plan of action has nothing to do with the quality of care or service we offer," Ellerman said last week.

IDPH made an unannounced visit to the hospital in October in response to a patient complaint. While IDPH determined that the complaint was unfounded, health officials cited a number of concerns such as boxes stacked too high, adhesive tape stuck to doors and dust on some shelves, Ellerman said.

"These are common things you might find at any hospital on a given day. In fact, we are thankful that the department pointed them out. It kind of stuff that we just don't need that has been stored for too long," Ellerman said.

In response to the IDPH concerns, hospital employees have been sprucing the place up. A hired to run the facility's housekeeping department, Ellerman said.

He said more than 100 hospitals in the state were surveyed last year and the health department had recommendations for more than half of them.

Sheriff seeks to ease jail tension

File cabinets at the Madison County Court-house aren't the only things busting at the seams as the number of felony cases continues to mount.

Tension and overcrowding at the County Jail are out of control and Sheriff Bob Churchich said he is running out of solutions. "Every morning when I come into work, I get a printout of the jail list and it keeps growing and growing and growing," said Churchich, who is impatiently awaiting a 95-bed jail expansion slated for construction in the spring.

"It's out of hand. Something has to change. These attorneys and judges have to start moving these cases so we can get some breathing room around here."

The jail, which has a capacity of 148, housed 225 prisoners Dec. 30 and arrests over the holiday weekend added more inmates.

The court system is not helping ease the burden, Churchich said. "We've done some checking and right now there are about 50 prisoners who have been in here for more than 120 days without any movement in their cases," he said. "Some of these people have as many as 11 continuances in their court files."

"I'm not trying to be critical of the courts or the (Madison County State's Attorney's Office), but some of these cases have gone on long enough."

Churchich said a prisoner who is appealing extradition to Missouri has been in jail about three years with no action on his case.

"The judges have to stop granting so many continuances," the sheriff said.

"The judge should tell the attorneys, mainly the private attorneys, that they either get prepared for trial next week or expect to be held in contempt of court."

Madison County Chief Judge Edward C. Ferguson said judges are fully aware of the crowded conditions. He contends the blame for overcrowding does not rest entirely with

Beating pounds home jail woes

A New Year's Day beating at the Madison County Jail is indicative of a tense situation caused by jail overcrowding, Sheriff Bob Churchich said.

A 36-year-old Alton man is recovering from injuries to his face and ribs after he was apparently attacked by other jail inmates Jan. 1.

The attack comes on the heels of Churchich's public plea to judges and attorneys to start moving the criminal felony docket.

Churchich said an abundance of court-allowed continuances is adding to the strain on the jail's resources and is fueling tension among inmates.

In the attack, Michael Valley, who is being held on charges of aggravated criminal sexual assault, was treated for facial bruising, a possible broken nose and bruised ribs.

Churchich said officials are not sure what provoked the attack but said Valley's cell-block was immediately locked down and some inmates were transferred to other any single segment of the judicial system.

"I'm confident the felony judges are keeping a close eye on the jail population," Ferguson said. "The docket is better than it has been and we are moving cases."

The jail is holding 16 murder suspects, in addition to dozens of other violent offenders.

"Most of these prisoners are serious felons," Churchich said. "We need some action. These attorneys need to be told to get busy."

"I realize we're getting a jail expansion. But if we don't get any movement, we won't last another three years with the expansion."

Ferguson said he would have to look at each case individually to identify any unnecessary delays.

"There are prisoners waiting to be sentenced and that takes time," he said. "There are also a lot of murderers and other violent offenders in the jail and it takes time to get the cases together."

"I'm not going to point fingers in public. I don't think any one person in general is at fault. I think we all need to work together."

Churchich said a record number of felony cases this year contributed to the overcrowded conditions.

"All the police departments are doing a better job and that's great," he said. "The problem is all these prisoners come here."

"We're at the bottom of the funnel and I don't know how much longer we can last without a major catastrophe."

Lounge burglarized 2nd time

For the second time in a week, Garrett's Lounge, in the 300 block of Baucum Avenue, Venice, was burglarized, and one of the employees is suspected of the theft.

Venice police say the employee was one of only three who could have got into the burglarized area, and he was found with the same kind of liquor found to be missing from Garrett's.

The employee was taken into custody and released, pending charges from the state's attorney. According to police reports, Gary Garrett, manager of Garrett's, reported that over $2,000 in merchandise was taken when the business was broken into some time Jan. 1.

On Wednesday, Garrett reported that some time Tuesday night, the business was burglarized again.

This time, over $300 in merchandise, including alcohol, cigars, lighters and an unknown amount of cash was taken from the business.

Garrett reported that entry was made through the storage room and liquor store. She said the liquor store can only be opened from the inside, but that door was left unlocked. She said the door between the store and the storage room was left open.

Police reported finding the employee the morning after the burglary with a bottle of alcohol in his possession.

Lung cancer guide available

The American Lung Association is offering a free comprehensive lung cancer guide, "Steps To A Better Understanding of Lung Cancer — A Patient and Family Guide."

The guide covers lung cancer from detection, diagnosis and treatment, to coping and planning. The guide was written to assist patients in learning about lung cancer and related issues. It also is intended to help family and friends gain a greater understanding of who gets lung cancer and what treatment and assistance is available.

Lung disease, which includes lung cancer, is the fastest growing killer in the United States today. Lung cancer accounts for one-half of all lung disease deaths and is now the most fatal form of cancer.

The number one cause of lung cancer is cigarette smoking; it is responsible for an estimated 87 percent of lung cancer cases, or seven out of eight.

For more information on lung cancer or other lung diseases, call the American Lung Association at 1-800-LUNG-USA (1-800-586-4872).

Animal adoptions set record for county agency

A record number of abandoned dogs and cats found new places to call home in 1994.

The Madison County Humane Society set a new adoption record, sending 974 homeless dogs and 709 homeless cats across welcoming mats. That's about 200 more than last year's combined record.

"It was a great year," society president Lory VanKavage said. "It was the best ever. We have never adopted out so many animals before. So many people opened up their hearts to these poor animals. It makes you feel so good inside."

Animal lovers apparently are beginning to realize they do not have to buy from breeders or answer newspaper ads to find quality pets, VanKavage said. You can get good quality animals at a very low cost from the shelter, she said. "At least 30 percent of our animals are purebred and they all cost the same. We've adopted out purebreds that would cost $800 from a dealer."

"Some of our animals were actually purchased for that much to begin with and then the owner decided they didn't want it so they brought it here."

The shelter charges $50 to adopt a dog and $25 for a cat. Once the animal is spayed or neutered, the shelter reimburses the owner $15.

"We've had every type of breed you can imagine," she said. "The only dog we haven't come across yet is an Irish wolfhound. It breaks my heart when these animals come in, but we're finding a lot of homes and I hope we can keep it up."

The shelter also transferred 432 animals to other shelters for adoption. "We don't know how many of those animals actually found homes, but we're optimistic that they did," she said.

The society took over the shelter seven years ago from Madison County Animal Control. In 1986, animal control only placed 84 dogs and 20 cats in adoptive homes.

"It's amazing how much we've improved," VanKavage said. "I don't know how many animals were euthanized last year, but in 1993 they euthanized 2,458 dogs and 1,063 cats. I'm sure last year's numbers are comparable to 1993."

"It's heartbreaking, but we are making progress," VanKavage said only about 20 percent of homeless animals nationwide find homes.

"The numbers are very hard core," she said. "We're excited about our figures, but there were a lot of animals that didn't find new homes."

Belcoff commends police agencies

By Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

Citing December drug arrests, Madison Mayor John Belcoff thanked Madison Police Chief Paul Bargiel, the Madison Police Department and the Venice Police Department during a City Council meeting Tuesday.

On Dec. 21, officers charged 31 people with 46 offenses. The arresting team was composed of Madison and Venice police and officers of the Illinois State Police, Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois, United States Drug Enforcement Administration, U.S. Marshall's Service and U.S. Secret Service.

The team swept through 11 homes and apartment complexes in Madison and Venice, and 19 of the 31 wanted individuals were arrested. Fourteen other persons were arrested on various charges.

As of last week, 22 of the 31 wanted persons had been arrested.

"We are not going to tolerate that kind of activity, and the ongoing efforts through the chief and the police department prove that," said Mayor Belcoff.

Chief Bargiel said the undercover investigation was solely done by the Madison and Venice police departments.

As far as he knows, he said, no other small departments have done anything like it.

"We haven't stopped. It's all continuing," Bargiel said.

Mayor Belcoff also mentioned that the Madison Community Action Group sent a letter thanking Chief Bargiel and the Madison and Venice police departments for the investigation.

In other business, the street and alley committee will meet with City Attorney Casper Nighohossian to discuss a Madison County proposal.

The county is attempting to begin a program in which each city would send recyclable materials to a county recycling center.

The cities would receive the containers at no fee, but a city recycling program would have to be designed.

Superintendent of Streets Robert Robbins said the goal is to recycle 20 to 25 percent of trash.

The council unanimously voted to approve an ordinance which will allow a handicapped parking place in front of the residence at 1027 Edwardsville Road.

Mayor Belcoff announced that city license stickers for automobiles are on sale now. In January, stickers are free to senior citizens, 62 years and older, and $8 for everyone else.

In February, the stickers will cost $5 for senior citizens and $10 for everyone else.

Every vehicle owner in Madison is required to have a city windshield sticker.

Touch of Nature

Laboratory offers outdoor adventure weekends

All the rock stars are doing it, and you can, too: Get unplugged! Just do as the Lakota Sioux: Embrace nature.

"Lakota Sioux don't prop themselves up in chairs, they sit on the ground. It reminds them of their connection with the earth," says Curtis J. "Curt" Carter, who plans adventure programs that pry people away from high-tech playthings and put them in hiking boots and canoes.

Carter works at a 3,100-acre outdoor education laboratory operated by Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

In January, Touch of Nature Environmental Center will begin taking reservations for customized "Environmental Ed-Venture" weekends for business groups, families, friends and others.

"We'll mold the program to each group," said Carter, whose interpretive staff includes zoologists, biologists, foresters and environmental educators.

Visitors, for instance, could choose to: tap maple trees in February and make syrup for a hotcake supper; paddle through a prehistoric swamp filled with herons and wood ducks and 1,000-year-old cypress trees, or go spelunking in Illinois' largest cave.

Touch of Nature is tucked within the oak-filled Shawnee National Forest. It borders a pristine lake and a national wildlife refuge brimming with bald eagles, Canada geese and deer.

"There aren't many TVs. So people end up walking, talking and sharing the environment. Families and groups spend big chunks of time together," said Carter, who kissed Southern California's glitz goodbye to raise his daughter in the down-to-earth atmosphere of his home state.

"People come to Touch of Nature to get away from it all. They're surrounded by technology all week.

"There aren't many TVs. So people end up walking, talking and sharing the environment. Families and groups spend big chunks of time together."

— Curtis Carter

"And while there's nothing wrong with technology, there is something wrong if you lose your link to the natural world."

His antidote to technology overload? A weekend package that includes: an adventure outing, evening campfire and sing along, two nights in rustic cabins or a modern lodge, and four meals.

Minimum group size is 12. However, the center is large enough to handle up to 400 people at once.

Per person cost is about $60.

"We can adjust the program for various age groups and interests. And the center's facilities are equipped for people with disabilities," he said.

A weekend encounter with a motorcycle club eight years ago got Carter thinking about the value of outdoor programs for families and youth groups.

"My first assignment here was to put on a program for the BMW Club. I didn't know what to expect."

"Were these guys gonna come roaring in on bikes? As it turns out, they drove up in mini-vans with their kids in tow. They'd given up the motorcycles when they started their families. But they remained friends and every month they make an adventure for their kids.

"They've come back every year. I take them canoeing and hiking. And we always end up around the campfire," said Carter.

"I've watched their kids grow up."

The outings can leave lasting impressions, he said.

"There's a big difference between sitting down and watching a video together and taking a canoe trip or a hike," he said. "The video's forgotten the minute it's over."

"The canoe trip is remembered a lifetime. By the end of your stay, you've gotten to know each other. You've all gotten your feet wet and muddy. You've laughed and giggled."

"You've shared the same stresses and challenges."

"It all adds up to a good experience for everyone."

For more information about Environmental Ed-Venture weekends, write or call Carter at SIUC's Touch of Nature, Carbondale, IL 62901-6888, 618-453-1121.

Davis campaigns to save attorney general's office

SPRINGFIELD — State Rep. Steve Davis is calling on constituents to write Attorney General-elect Jim Ryan urging him to keep open the regional attorney general's office in Granite City. Ryan, a Republican, took office Monday, succeeding Democrat Roland Burris.

A transition committee studying all operations of the attorney general's office is expected to have a report finished in about 90 days and the eight-county Granite City office will stay open at least until then, a spokesman for Ryan said.

Ryan is "committed to the concept of regional offices but has reserved the right to determine how many and where and what they should be," said spokesman John Hoffman.

"There could be some changes or there may be no significant changes at all," Hoffman said.

Davis, a Bethalto Democrat, said, "Many area residents are aware of the great job the Granite City regional office has done over the past 10 years."

"The office has taken in nearly 36,000 cases, returned almost $1 million to fraud victims and generated several million dollars in fines and court judgments."

"If area residents really want to keep this office open, I strongly urge everyone to write to Mr. Ryan and tell him how important this office is to the area," he added.

Davis wrote a letter to Ryan saying the benefits of the Granite City regional office far outweigh the costs.

"If you look at the caseload reports, I'm sure you will agree that the Granite City regional office has provided a great service to people living in the counties served by this office," Davis wrote.

"While many people believe most aspects of government need fixing, these offices are something positive within state government that works for the people."

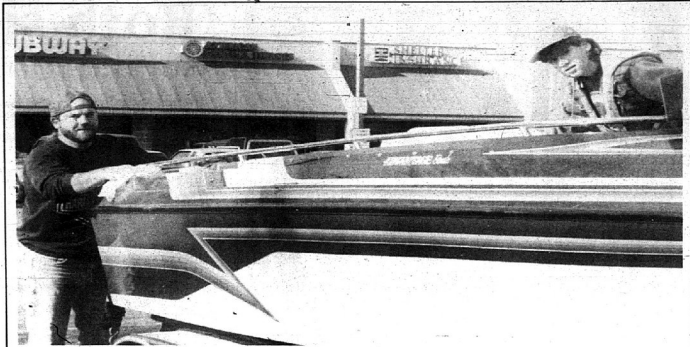

The office covers Madison, Bond, Macoupin, Calhoun, Jersey, Greene, Montgomery and Fayette counties.

It was established under Attorney General Neil Hartigan and continued under Attorney General Burris, both Democrats.

Asked whether a show of public support for the office would influence Ryan, Hoffman said, "He will be looking at the needs of the public, and one of the factors is the extent to which people in various communities say they are being served by the office."

Davis urged supporters of the Granite City office to write Ryan at 500 South Second St., Springfield, IL, 62706.

'Both sides of the aisle' McPike forms lobbying group with Republican

Retiring state Rep. Jim McPike is forming a lobbying partnership with a former veteran Republican lawmaker that will have a bipartisan front.

McPike, an Alton Democrat, said he and former state Rep. Gene Hoffman of Oak Brook are forming the partnership and already have arranged for office space in the state capital.

"I've known Gene for a long time and we worked on many issues when he was in the House," McPike said. "It seemed like a good fit."

Hoffman was a member of the House from 1957 to 1991, the last several years as part of the Republican leadership. McPike completed nearly 18 years in the House, 12 as majority leader, when he left office Saturday.

McPike said the partnership does not have any clients but has an agreement to lease space in an existing new building near the Statehouse built by the Illinois Retail Merchants Association.

Hoffman said "possibly a few" of his clients in an existing lobbying partnership with Charles Vaughn may go with him in his venture with McPike.

According to the most recent lobbyist registration list with the Secretary of State's Office, Hoffman and Vaughn's clients included Budget Rent-A-Car, the DuPage County Board, the Illinois Fire Chiefs Association, the Illinois Association of Court Clerks, the Illinois Propane Gas Association, NICOR Energy Services, and Pepsi-Cola General Bottlers.

Hoffman said he suggested the idea for the partnership after McPike decided to retire from the Legislature.

As for potential clients, Hoffman said, "We're talking to a number of folks who have contacted us and I suppose we'll decide what we're going to take and there will be some people who take a look at us and decide to go some where else."

Hoffman brings a geographical advantage to the partnership since he is from DuPage County, the home of both incoming House

Speaker Lee Daniels and Senate President James "Pate" Philip. Meanwhile, McPike's successor as 11th House District representative, Steve Davis of Bethalto, was sworn into office during a 2 p.m. ceremony New Year's Day at Elbie Town Hall in Rosewood Heights.

McPike said he has given office furniture in his Alton district to be used in Davis' new office in Wood River.

"My goal was to have the district office all set up and ready for business before the end of the year," Davis said.

By taking office before most other incoming House freshmen do when the Legislature convenes Jan. 11, Davis gets a seniority advantage.

He also will participate in the final day of the outgoing Legislature Jan. 10.

Route 66 nominations sought

Nominees for 1995 induction into the Route 66 Hall of Fame are being sought by the Route 66 Association of Illinois before Feb. 28.

Induction ceremonies will take place June 10 on the steps of the Old Courthouse in Bloomington. The event is coordinated in conjunction with the association's sixth annual Chicago-St. Louis motor tour.

The Hall of Fame is a free museum located at Dixie Trucks Home in McLean. It includes such "relics of the road" as a 1933 Ford, a can of 1966 beer and the nameplate from a Tucker automobile, as well as photos and memorabilia.

"Our goal is to commemorate the people, places and events that gave Route 66 its unique blend of hardy individualism and grassroots community spirit," said association Director Tom Teague. "But our interest isn't only nostalgic. There's a lot of Route 66 left to celebrate and at the Hall of Fame, you can get a taste of it."

Nominations should be sent to Tom Teague, Route 66 Hall of Fame, 1208 W. Edwards, Springfield, Ill. 62704. Teague said anyone may submit a nomination. No form is required — just 250 or more words of narrative about the nominee.

"Pack in as many specifics as you can," Teague said.

paper towel. The skin is a protective coat that keeps the paint creamy and easy to work with. No messy running of colors under stencil. Use Paint Creme sparingly. The colors are very concentrated, so a little goes a long way. Make sure to blot the stencil brush before beginning to stencil on paper towel.

Tips to remember:

- Always begin with the lightest color first to make blending of colors easy and professional looking.
- Always lay stencil on waxed paper to clean after use to prevent mixing colors and creating a muddling look.
- Tape small piece of heavy paper to stencil to cover any area of the stencil you do not want to get on the surface to be stenciled.
- Use a brush that best fits the size of the opening on stencil. Very small detailed areas require a small brush; large areas require a larger brush.
- Use premoistened towels to wipe up any mistakes on painted surfaces and an eraser to pick up mistakes on fabric.
- Spray any hard surface with Top Coat to prevent smudging and to speed drying time.
- Clean brushes immediately with soap and water or brush cleaner.

Optional: Surface can be fly specked by diluting the paint with water until you have the same consistency as ink. Dip stiff brush in paint and run your fingers over bristles to spatter paint on hard surfaces.

MATERIALS:

- Stencils shown: Large tulip border & crow's picnic (checked border)
- Stencil Magic paint cremes: Pink carnation, jungle green, charcoal green, garnet red & metallic gold
- Stencil brushes, stencil adhesive & stencil top coat
- Stencil surface: Any flat, smooth area - walls, wood, canvas, rugs, fabric & paper

Basic Supplies: Waxed paper, paper towel, pre-moistened towelettes, white artist eraser, acrylic basecoat, trim colors and Delta's waterbase varnish for faux finish.

• Basecoat wood pieces in Delta's acrylic colors of your choice. (To be stenciled. One application of adhesive will allow you to reposition stencil repeatedly.)

•Trial

Both Partney and Shafer testified Monday in the domestic battery trial of Crouch, the acting Pontoon Beach police chief. Crouch was a detective at the time of the alleged incident.

The stipulated bench trial is being heard by Associate Judge Dan Stack. The prosecution concluded its case Monday afternoon and defense witnesses were to continue to take the stand Tuesday morning.

Crouch, 41, is alleged to have battered Partney, 44, with whom he lived for about 11 years prior to the incident on July 12 last year.

The two have since split up and Crouch is now married to another woman. Partney and Crouch are also in the middle of a civil dispute over the ownership of their former residence.

Partney testified that Crouch came home in the early morning hours July 12, hit her in the nose with his hand, locked her in a bedroom, threw her down a flight of steps, choked her and pulled her hair. Crouch said he was defending himself from Partney, whom he said attacked him with the butt of a rifle. He denies having thrown Partney down the stairs.

Partney also testified that on the night of July 5, Crouch put a gun to her head and said, "I ought to blow your ... brains out."

Partney testified that she responded: "Why don't you go ahead and put me out of my misery."

She said the alleged July incidents were just two of many such altercations. She testified that Crouch struck her with his truck and dragged her around a parking lot in a Feb. 17 incident.

He said that Partney was jealous because she knew Crouch was seeing another woman. He said Partney told him that if Crouch would not return home, she would have his job.

"We have no doubts about the quality of care we provide at SEMC. But this is an opportunity for us to renew our commitment of service to our patients and the community," he said.

IDPH is expected to make an unannounced follow-up visit to the hospital some time in the next two weeks, Eilerman said.

SEMC was surveyed by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations and received full accreditation in 1992. The next JCAHO survey is scheduled for November this year.

"The suspect had called the victim twice and also called (Schnucks). This shows that this is a pressure-type scam and the callers can be very demanding of their elderly victims," Parker said.

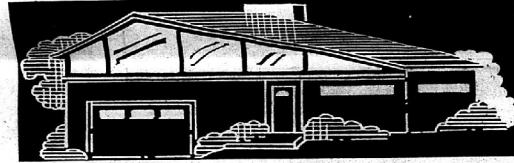

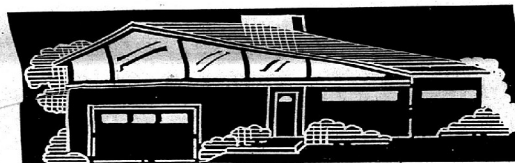

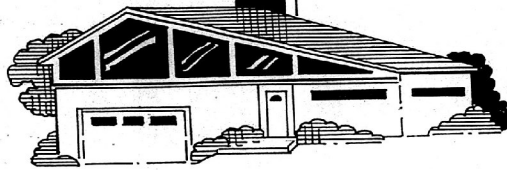

Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey, director of the Granite City Regional AG office, said he has received two similar reports in the past couple of weeks.

"This is a typical scenario for these unscrupulous characters who prey on the sympathy of an elderly person or on greed by promising big prizes if you send cash now," Orsey said.

"This doesn't just happen on '60 Minutes' or '48 Hours' or in some faraway place," Orsey said.

He urged intended victims to contact police and his office. "Several years ago, you used to hear about these operations after they had already struck. Now, thanks to a number of educational programs, we're beginning to hear about them being thwarted," Orsey said.

"The AG office has educational materials. Unfortunately, for every one we educate there are probably two or three that fall for it," Orsey said.

Winter clinics offer insight for anglers

By Bill Seibel
Correspondent

It's that time of year when the deep freeze moves into our part of the world.

While some will continue to chase geese or rabbits or even a few still after quail, most of us are starting to plan and prepare for the activities of spring. That means fishing.

A big part of fishing at this time of year is attending some or all of the many fishing clinics, seminars or even watching some of the shows on the tube. Some people even rent videos about fishing by the great pros, trying to absorb more and more of their proven techniques.

There are plenty of opportunities to attend these seminars. Contact the St. Louis County Department of Parks and Recreation at (314) 487-4086 for information on the "Come Fishin'" program, the St. Louis Community College at Florissant Valley at (314) 864-4444 for a special seminar series on bass fishing or attend the St. Louis Boat and Sports Show this last week in February.

Whenever the speaker might be, listen to what he or she is saying. So many times, I've watched anglers at a seminar doze or whisper to one another as the speaker talks about some things, then pay very close attention when the topic shifts a bit. Almost invariably, the inattention comes when the speaker is "setting the scene." This means he is describing the conditions which caused him to use a particular lure or technique.

Miss what the conditions were

and you miss the most important part of the discussion. Certain lures or techniques will work in certain conditions, but bomb in others.

I've become convinced that fish of most any species can be caught on different lures and different techniques at almost any time of the day or night. A big chunk of that success or failure involves the attitude of the angler.

A great lesson of that belief was demonstrated to me on the second day of the BASS Masters Classic on North Carolina's High Rock Lake last summer. I was privileged to sit in the back of the boat watching Guido Hibdon of Gravois Mills, Mo., try to improve his fifth-place standing.

Hibdon cugged his five-foot long flippin' rods with similar lures — one a black-and-red jig with a black-and-chartrreuse Guido bug (plastic crayfish) trailer and the other with a black-neon (red fleck) plastic Ringworm with a chartreuse curly tail.

He caught a few fish on the jig early, but then switched to the plastic worm and caught a few better fish. But he was two shy of a limit at noon and he hadn't had a bite in more than an hour. He changed locations, but he stayed with the same lure.

And at 1:30 p.m., he caught a nice fish. Then, a short while later in the middle of a down-pour — he caught a good fish of nearly four pounds. "There's no secret to this stuff," he mused. "Just keep it wet!" We both laughed.

Hibdon's attitude was that he had figured out what the fish wanted to bite, so it was not a matter of changing lures. It was a matter of getting the lure close to a fish that was willing to bite at the time the fish was ready to bite. That took work and concentration — fishing each pitch as though it was going to produce a 10-pounder, even though he hadn't gotten a bite for more than an hour.

That's attitude I've been with him when he's changed lures and techniques completely. Deciding when and why is what most of us have to learn. And then have the confident attitude that we've done the correct thing — and catch fish accordingly.

If any of us learn anything from this winter's seminar sessions, let it be that we get better at assessing conditions and how to find success anyway.

wins over Quincy and Glenwood. After 105-pound freshman Jeremy Cox posted his first varsity win with a 9-4 victory over Quincy's Mike Mortimer, 115-pounder Myke Glover jumped out to a 12-2 lead against Dustin Harris. The Warriors closed out the match with 11 straight victories, including pins by 125-pounder Mark Mendenhall, 130-pounder T.J. Slay, 140-pounder Kevin Feigenbutz, 145-pounder Jeff Estrada, 160-pounder Joe Scott, 171-pounder Tony Buchek and 189-pounder John Sellers.

Against Glenwood, the Warriors dropped the first two matches and fell behind 8-0 before winning 10 of the next 11. Granite City got three straight pins from Slay, 185-pounder Brian Schooley and Feigenbutz and technical fall victories from 119-puck around the net. We were moving the puck real well at that point."

With 2:10 left in the period, Reeves redirected a shot from Steve Sindt into the net. Chris Hatfield also recorded an assist on the play.

Sindt scored Granite City's next goal early on in the third period. At :56, Sindt scored his fourth goal of the season unassisted.

The Warriors then scored on one of the prettier plays in the game when Bobby Harris upped in the puck off assists from Lofus and Pritchard. Harris' deflection rebounded off the post and into the net.

"That was a beautiful play," Yurkovich said. "Lofus was along the boards, and he got the puck to Harris in the slot. (Harris) had a guy all over him and he deflected it."

Hazelwood East broke the shutout with a goal at 5:50, but Critics answered at 8:36 with another goal assisted by Clint Phelps and Reeves. Matt Wilson closed out the scoring with an unassisted goal at 10:32.

Granite City outshot Hazelwood East 38-12 for the game. Goalender John Nappier was in net for the Warriors.

"He had to make a few saves, but he basically didn't get tested," Yurkovich said.

•Madison

Madison assistant coach Marcus Spraggins, sitting in for the ailing Al Collins, said "Cahokia is one of the top teams in the area — definitely one of the top (Class) AA teams — and we had the perfect game plan for them in the first half."

"We shut them down underneath and didn't allow them to set up outside. But once we fell behind (midway through the second quarter) we had to go to the man defense and their athletes are just bigger and better."

"We have a ways to go with this team. We start three sophomores, they play a bunch of seniors. Our guys played well and they hung tough through the whole game. We have nothing to hang our heads about."

The second half, however, belonged to the Comanches. From the moment they inbounded the ball, the Comanches seemed an entirely different team. Suddenly, their size advantage became blatantly obvious and their rebounding more aggressive as they blocked one Madison shot after another.

The offense began to click as well, as Cahokia drained six field goals in the third quarter to drive the Trojans back on their heels. Cahokia coach Roscoe Dowell said his team's turnaround came after the Comanches regrouped at halftime.

"We let ourselves get drawn into a 'grab and slap' game in the first half," Dowell said. "What we had to do in the second half was concentrate on our game and not worry about what Madison was trying to do to us."

"When things started to get out of hand there in the third quarter, I pulled them aside and told them we needed to play Cahokia basketball. That means you worry about what you do on the floor, not the other team. Worry about your positioning on defense and let's run the offense two or three times to perfection. That got us back in the flow of our game."

Shooting guard Vince Ford teamed with forward Antoine Ford to lead the Comanches in their second-half tear. Both players shot well from the outside and became particularly adept at snatching their own rebounds away from Valentine and Madison forward Kevin Bradley.

Vince Ford poured in 13 second-half points to finish with a game-high 19, while Antoine added 10 after the half to finish with 12. The Comanches were also very impressive from the foul line, where they converted on 16 of 19 opportunities.

While Dowell hopes to keep his team rolling, Spraggins and the Trojans will pick up the pieces and once again try to make the most of a tough loss.

Madison has lost four straight games. The Trojans stand at 5-8 heading into Friday's home game against Pittsfield. Their last win came Dec. 20 against Hillsboro.

"We'll look to keep improving, we've come so far already," Spraggins said. "We need to work on consistently playing to our game plan that's been tough for our young team."

"The discipline will come, though, with more games. If we can just learn to pace ourselves and work the ball at a steadier tempo, I think we'll be OK come the postseason."

Belleville Diocese offering workshops

The Diocese of Belleville in Illinois will sponsor a number of Sunday workshops this winter on the "Catechism of the Catholic Church," a compendium of Catholic teaching that has become a best-selling book in the publishing industry with its phenomenal sales.

The book has already sold more than two million copies in the United States, and has become an object of fascination with Protestants as well as Catholics.

"From a publishing perspective, this book reflects a very significant cultural trend," said Mark Markuly, director of religious education for the Belleville Diocese and one of the presenters of the workshop. "It's obvious many people in the U.S. are hungry for definitive answers to their religious and spiritual questions. The 'Catechism' may not give them all the answers they're looking for, but used properly it can help in a search for God."

The book has already sold more than two million copies in the United States, and has become an object of fascination with Protestants as well as Catholics.

"The Catechism: Searching for the Truth to Set You Free" is a workshop exploring how the content of the Catechism was developed, how it can help heal the divisions in the Catholic Church, and how an individual can use this unique book for personal spiritual development. "The 'Catechism' reflects a wonderful effort by many, many people in the Church," said Irene Dill, director of ministry formation in the Belleville Diocese and another one of the workshop presenters. "But it is largely useless to people unless people can find a way to use it in daily living. This workshop will try to give them some ideas on how to go about doing that."

"The Catechism: Searching for the Truth to Set You Free," is offered jointly by the Diocesan Offices of Education and Ministry Formation.

The Belleville Diocese serves about 120,000 Catholics in Southern Illinois.

The workshop will be offered from 1 to 4:30 p.m. at the following sites in the diocese:

- February 5 — St. Rose of Lima in Metropolis.
- February 26 — St. Polycarp in Carlin.
- March 26 — Diocesan Pastoral Center in Belleville.

Admission is free, but registration is required. For additional information call 235-9601, ext. 59.

To serve and protect — Belleville Area College's President Joseph J. Cipri, Ph.D., presents a certificate of graduation from BAC's Police Academy Session 56 to Darin Redden of Wood River at a ceremony held recently at BAC. Redden, who serves with the Wood River Police Department, won the Second Place trophy for Firearms.

Hearing set for widening 159

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

The Illinois Department of Transportation will hold an open house and public hearing in Collinsville Jan. 17 on a $24.6 million project to widen Illinois 159 to five lanes from Interstate 64 north to Edwardsville.

It includes 8.86 miles of roadway, but omits a section from Morrison Avenue at the south end of Collinsville to north of the 50/70 interchange north of Collinsville.

IDOT Program Development Engineer Kent Muskopf said Wednesday that funding for the project has not yet been approved.

He said it is not included in the current five-year plan, which runs through 1999, but could be included any year after that.

"It would generally be a combination of federal and state funds," Muskopf said. "It goes through the process and competes with other projects on a statewide basis."

"At this point we don't know when the funding will become available, but based on the traffic volume, there definitely is a need," he said.

IDOT does have funding, however, for engineering and obtaining some right of way needed for the project. Planning has been under way since June 1991, and right of way acquisition could begin in about three years.

Muskopf said one reason for forging ahead now is to prevent a situation in which more of the right of way would be developed six or seven years down the road when funding for construction is secured, making the project much more difficult and expensive.

Currently the project would require 45.17 acres of right of way, including one Maryville business and a barber shop — along with two homes in Maryville and one near Glen Crossing Road.

The project calls for the widening and resurfacing of the highway, and the construction of a bi-directional left-turn lane.

Much of Illinois 159 in central and northern Collinsville already has been widened to three or five lanes, but some portions still are two lanes.

IDOT's project summary states that "the construction of additional lanes through Collinsville is not possible because of the narrow right of way and close proximity of the buildings to the road."

The summary contends that "a bottleneck is avoided by through traffic bypassing Collinsville using Interstate 270, Illinois 157 and Morrison Avenue or Hollywood Heights Road."

But City Engineer Bret Janke said Wednesday that he expects to still see traffic jams in Collinsville.

He agreed with IDOT's assessment that it would be extremely difficult, and expensive to attempt to widen the road in areas where businesses line both sides.

"It's already a tremendous bottleneck, and it will continue to be a bottleneck until it is five lanes all the way through," he said.

Leonard Diak

Leonard R. Diak, 69, of Granite City, died at 9:45 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 8, 1995, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after being ill since 1991. He was born Oct. 7, 1925, in Horanville, where he had been a lifelong resident.

A meat packer and scaler with Swift and Company in Granite City for 32 years, he was a member of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church in Granite City and AMVETS Post 204 and Slovak Lodge; he was also a World War II Navy veteran, serving in the Philippines.

Survivors include his wife, Norma (Crawford) Diak, whom he married Oct. 7, 1950, in Granite City; three daughters, Donna Diak of Colorado Springs, Colo., Jeannie Diak and Dorothy Carney, both of Granite City; two brothers, Joseph Diak of Glen Carbon, Albert Diak of Granite City and Rudy Diak of Edwardsville; one sister, Ann Morris of Granite City; and two granddaughters.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Andrew and Helen (Kontros) Diak; four brothers, Andrew, George, Steve and Frank Diak Sr.; and two sisters, Helen Bishoff and Mary Donahue.

Services are at 11 a.m. today, Wednesday, at Irwin Chapel, 3900 Maryville Road, Granite City, with the Rev. Robert DeGrand officiating. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Glen Carbon.

Memorials are requested for the American Lung Association.

Is long-term care insurance right for you?

The best candidates for long-term care insurance are generally individuals between the ages of 55 and 65 who are planning for retirement, have at least $150,000 in assets to protect and like to plan ahead. Those under age 55 may be interested in purchasing long-term care protection for their parents, or for themselves when the price is low. Since long-term care insurance is medically underwritten, all candidates should be in reasonably good health.

Choosing the Right Plan
To determine the appropriate amount of coverage, you must make three important decisions:

1. Daily benefit amount This is the maximum benefit you will receive for any one day. Before choosing a benefit amount, you should find out the going rate for nursing home or home health care in your area. Typically, individuals choose an amount in the range of $100 to 150 a day.

2. Benefit period Five-year plans are popular because 90 percent of all people who need care will need it for five years or less. Choosing a plan to minimize your risk, a lifetime benefit period may be appropriate.

3. Elimination period The elimination period is like a deductible and should be selected based on the amount you are willing to pay out of pocket before benefits begin. The most common choices are 30 days or 90 days.

Comprehensive plans can provide coverage for nursing home care, assisted-living facilities, home care and community-based care. You can lower your premiums by selecting a more limited plan. Other ways to reduce premium include lowering the daily benefit amount, choosing a shorter benefit period, or increasing the elimination period.

Like many investors, you may have worked hard and invested carefully to provide for a secure retirement. But your financial plans may not be complete if you haven't included long-term care protection. Almost 50 percent of the population will require long-term care at some point in their lives—that's one out of every two people or potentially one person from every couple.

Long-term care is not covered under major medical plans or Medicare, so, if you require care, expenses will have to be paid out of your own income and assets. Depending on where you live, the cost of spending a year in a nursing home could run to $50,000 or more, and the average fine people require long-term care is about three years. This means that you could be faced with unplanned expenses of $150,000 or more in retirement. If you happen to be among those who require care for a longer period of time, the cost could be even greater.

You can protect your assets from long-term care expenses
Even if you feel you can afford the costs of long-term care, why self-insure when there is an alternative to paying these expenses out of pocket? By using a portion of your investment earnings to pay reasonable annual premiums, you can transfer the risk to an insurance company and protect your assets from long-term care costs. Long-term care insurance can help you maintain your independence and give you the freedom to choose the type of care you want.

Long-term care insurance provides benefits if you are unable to care for yourself. It need not only be for nursing home expenses; it can cover many services provided in the home or community (such as home health care, assisted-living facilities or adult day care). It can even provide benefits to pay for emergency medical response systems, home modifications due to a medical condition, or temporary professional care so the burden of in-home care won't fall entirely on your spouse, children or other family members.

AIDS quilt panel — The University Center Board of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the Gay and Lesbian Association of Students at SIUE (GLASS) have cooperated with C. Otis Sweezy, SIUE professor of theater and dance and project coordinator, to create an AIDS quilt panel to commemorate SIUE students who have died of AIDS. The SIUE panel, which is made up of smaller sewn patches containing sentiments and messages, will eventually become a panel in the National AIDS Memorial Quilt that is maintained and displayed annually in many cities throughout the United States. Above, with the SIUE quilt panel are, from left, Lyle Ward, acting director of the University Center; Robert Hollers, a junior from Litchfield studying psychology and a member of GLASS; Tiffany Hicks, a senior from Granite City studying marketing; and Sweezy.

CIRCUMVENTING ARTHRITIS

X-rays reveal that about 80 percent of people over age 65 have osteoarthritis joint changes that cause some 60 percent of this number of experience related pain. Osteoarthritis is commonly referred to as "wear and tear" arthritis because it results from the normal abuse that our joints endure over our lifetimes. As the cartilage that coats the ends of our bones deteriorates, the joint's ability to reduce friction becomes depleted. However, not all osteoarthritic change is necessarily inevitable. Perfectly normal cartilage may wear unevenly when a joint is misaligned. Whether the misalignment was present at birth or resulted from a fall, a chiropractic adjustment can restore normal function to the joint and prevent unnecessary wear.

Recent research has shown that chiropractic care can reverse some of the effects of osteoarthritis—something which had previously been considered impossible. At the office of WARREN A. STEWART, JR., D.C., located at 10251 Lincoln Trail, Suite 12, Fairview Heights, our objective is to relieve pain and restore and achieve our patient's optimal movement and health—without drugs or surgery. Let us help you. Call 398-2121 to schedule an appointment. Hrs: M-F 8am-6pm.

P.S. In susceptible people, a series of barely noticeable minor injuries can lead to arthritic changes in joints.

Disability benefits don't have time limit

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

Q. I'm 50 years old and have been drawing Social Security disability benefits for several years, since I contracted a serious and chronic illness. How long will Social Security pay me my disability benefits? When I turn 62 or 65, will I need to apply for my regular Social Security?

A. Disability benefits continue as long as your disability lasts, or until you turn 65. If you remain disabled, you'll be converted automatically to a Social Security retirement benefit. But since the benefit you get now, as a disabled person, is your unreduced Social Security, your monthly benefit will not change.

Q. I get Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks, and I work part time to add to my income. I didn't earn enough money in 1994 to owe any income tax, so all the money that was withheld from my paycheck will be refunded. Will my tax refund count as income for SSI and reduce my monthly SSI check?

A. Tax refunds don't count as income for SSI purposes. That's because your gross earnings, not your after-tax earnings, counted as income for SSI purposes at the time you earned them. Therefore, your tax refund is part of the earnings that have already counted against your SSI.

Remember, though, that SSI also limits your assets. You can own no more than $2,000 of countable assets and still qualify for SSI. If you don't spend your refund, it will count as an asset for SSI purposes. Be careful that it doesn't push you over the limit.

Q. My mother, a widow, died in late November. Social Security tells me that I must return her December check. Why is this?

A. No Social Security benefits are payable for the month of death. Social Security checks are paid on the third day of the month following the month they are due. That means your mother was not due the Dec. 3 check because she did not live the whole month of November.

Q. I'll be 62 in April and that's when I intend to stop working. Although I've worked most of my life, the jobs I've had did not pay well. My husband plans to work until he turns 65 in 1996. Since I know that my Social Security isn't going to be much, can I receive my own retirement now and then get something on my husband's Social Security when he finally retires?

A. When your husband applies for his retirement benefits, we'll compare what you're receiving on your work record to what you can on your husband's Social Security. As his spouse, you can get a benefit based on one-half of his benefit. If you can receive more as his spouse, apply on his Social Security and your benefit will increase to that higher amount.

Chicken breast can be used in Mexican recipes calling for ground beef, particularly when it has a perky sauce. Start by coating boneless, skinned chicken breast halves, cut in 1-inch pieces, with 1 tablespoon chili powder. In nonstick skillet, stir-fry in 1 teaspoon oil 4 minutes until tender. Add 2 cups chunky salsa and 3/4 cup water. Bring to full boil. Stir in 1-1/2 cups instant brown rice. Reduce heat. Simmer, covered, 5 minutes. To serve, sprinkle with chopped green onion.

Private Label Test Run

Replace those winter blahs with pineapple

The old tinny flavor of canned pineapple has been replaced with a fresher flavor, according to Journal tasters who checked out Shop 'n Save's juice-packed sliced pineapple in this week's Private Label Test Run.

They started by looking at it as soon as the can was opened.

"It has nice color. It's pretty in appearance and isn't pale," one said of the private label brand.

The comments went right to the core.

"There is no core," a taster said. "If it is really hard, it isn't going to be very good."

"It's not at all hard around that core," echoed another.

Flavor ranked as high on their compliments.

"This is very good, very sweet. It almost tastes like the sugared pineapple," a taster said.

She said today's canned pineapple is closer to fresh than it used to be.

"The first time I tasted fresh, it was so different (than canned) I wasn't sure I liked it."

But mechanical improve-

Sliced pineapple long has been a winter mainstay for a taste of the tropics.

ments now leave more fresh flavor in, and less metallic flavor out of canned pineapple. She listed her many uses for it: on ham, in upside-down cake and crushed pineapple in salads and desserts. The tasters felt the Shop 'n Save private label of canned pineapple could be used interchangeably with national brands — a savings of at least 15 cents.

No time left to cook? Phone home for dinner

Believe it or not, a meal prepared at home can be done in about the same time it takes to wait for a fast food burger and fries. Not only that, it can be made cheaper and healthier.

Plan meals around starches and vegetables, adding a small amount of meat for protein and flavor. Pasta and quick-cooking rice finish in less than 10 minutes. Fish filets and skinless, boneless chicken breast grill or broil in a flash.

Use the microwave to cook vegetables quickly. Zap a sweet potato five to 10 minutes, broccoli 10 minutes or spinach as little as 6 minutes. Carrots and tomatoes can be eaten raw. Because they are among the most nutritious vegetables, they should be eaten frequently.

Cut up salad ingredients and refrigerate to use several meals. Easier yet, buy packaged bags of salad mixings at the grocery store. Keeping the food pyramid in mind, start planning other fast meals. Since the salad is ready with easy-to-lose ingredients, cook pasta and mix with a commercial spaghetti sauce. Add a favorite Italian bread, a cooked vegetable, and — voila! — the meal is complete. Another "quickie" meal starts at the supermarket with cut-up vegetables from the salad bar or produce section. Stir-fry them with tofu, fish or chicken and serve over rice or noodles. Use a packaged sauce mix. Frozen strawberries with vanilla yogurt finish the meal.

Breakfast food at dinner time takes less than a half hour to prepare. Whip up an omelet of egg whites and whole eggs, or yolk-free egg product. Serve with grits, hash browns, bagels, sautéed apple and a grapefruit half.

What could be faster to put on the table than a vegetarian meal? Cook some rice. Add a can of red beans spiced with oregano, cumin, basil or cloves. Steamed vegetables, rolls and mixed fruit with cottage cheese balance this "fast-food" meal.

Frozen dinners straight from the supermarket freezer, obviously, require the least amount of preparation. Choose low-fat frozen dinners with eight grams or less fat.

Whatever the choice, keep in mind the food pyramid: plenty of starches, vegetables and fruits, fewer meat and dairy products.

Here is an easy, foolproof dinner that lets a cook whisk down "easy street."

CHEESY PASTA WITH VEGETABLES AND MEAT

- 1 box (.75 oz.) macaroni and cheese mix
- 2 carrots, chopped
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 bunch broccoli, chopped
- 1 medium zucchini, sliced
- 1 lb. ground beef sirloin or 1 can (6 oz.) tuna packed in water (optional)
- 1 can (15 oz.) tomatoes

Put carrots and onions in boiling water with macaroni. Boil 5 minutes. Add broccoli and zucchini. Boil 2 minutes longer. Drain.

If making dish with meat, brown ground meat. Drain. Thoroughly combine macaroni, vegetables, undrained tomatoes and cheese packet from mix.

Registered dietician Kitty Quinn is a member of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association, St. Louis Chapter.

SEAFOOD CHOWDER

- 2 cans (16 oz. each) reduced-fat New England clam chowder
- 1 to 2 cups low-fat or nonfat milk
- 1 cup canned corn, drained
- 2 tsp. minced green bell pepper
- 6 oz. cooked, peeled, deveined shrimp
- 4 oz. (½ cup) surimi (imitation crab) seafood flakes
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Chopped fresh parsley

Combine clam chowder, milk, corn and green pepper in medium saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to simmer.

Add shrimp and crabmeat. Heat gently about 2 minutes until seafood is hot.

Hearty bean soup appeals to appetites on a budget

Here is the dilemma. Money is low after the holidays. Ham is plentiful enough after leftovers that extra was saved in the freezer.

So what kind of simple, non-elaborate, economical meal does this suggest? Bean soup, of course.

Dried beans are always economical. Using a leftover ham shank or bone is a bonus. These recipes log in at less than 30 cents per serving.

Feel free to switch beans to varieties other than those suggested. These recipes freeze well, so cook with abandon and store leftovers for an easy meal later this winter.

The beans can be prepared one of two ways. They can be soaked traditionally overnight. With a quick-soak method in a microwave, they are warm already, so require less simmering.

The microwave way is to wash and rinse the dry beans, cover them with about 8 cups water, bring to a boil and let them stand. This cuts soaking time from 8 hours to a little more than 1½ hours. Using a food processor or blender after partial cooking also helps soften some of the fiber and thicken the broth.

Dried beans being just that, these recipes still need time to cook. Soup taste best when simmered and the large number of servings means longer heating, even for a microwave oven. The constant and even cooking helps avoid boil overs though.

NAVY BEAN SOUP

- 1 lb. dry navy beans, washed, rinsed
- Water
- 1½ cups chopped or diced ham
- 1 large onion, chopped
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ cup finely chopped carrot
- 1½ tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. garlic powder, or 1 clove garlic, minced
- ½ tsp. pepper
- Dash hot sauce

In 3-quart microwave-safe casserole, cover beans with 9 cups water. Cover. Let soak overnight, or in microwave, bring to boil (about 20 minutes) on high power, then let stand 1 hour.

Drain liquid into measuring cup. Add water to make 6 cups. Return to beans. Add ham, onion, celery, carrot, salt, garlic, pepper and hot sauce.

Microwave, covered, 20 to 22 minutes. 16 to 18 minutes if using the quick-soak method — until mixture boils. Microwave at medium (50 percent) power, stirring occasionally, 55 to 60 minutes until beans are tender. Let stand 10 minutes.

In food processor or blender, process 2 cups bean mixture until smooth. Return to soup. Microwave on high power 8 to 10 minutes. Serve hot with crackers. Makes about 12 servings.

HAM N BEAN SOUP

- 1 lb. dry pinto or other beans, washed, rinsed
- 8 cups water
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 large (1 to 1½ lb.) meaty ham shank or bone, or 2 cups chopped ham
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
- ½ tsp. crushed marjoram leaves
- ½ tsp. pepper

In 4- or 5-quart microwave-safe casserole, combine beans, water and salt. Cover.

Let soak overnight, or in microwave, bring to boil (about 20 minutes) on high power, then let stand 1 hour.

Stir in ham, onion, bay leaf, tomato paste, marjoram and pepper. Microwave, covered, on high power, stirring once or twice, 1½ to 1¾ hours until beans are tender.

Remove ham bone to cool. Discard bay leaf.

In food processor or blender, process about 3 cups bean mixture until smooth. Return to soup. Remove meat from ham bone, chop and add to soup.

If necessary, cover and warm 5 to 10 minutes on high power, then let stand through. Yields about 8 servings.

Rice forms solid base

If your New Year's resolution is to eat healthier in 1995, you want to include rice. It is delicious, of course, and a good source of complex carbohydrates. Best of all, rice has no cholesterol, fat or sodium.

Because of its versatility, rice can be the foundation of breakfast, lunch and dinner recipes. This simple grain has been a popular life-sustaining food for thousands of years. Because it is nutritious, economical and easy to prepare. Along with being acceptable to people with gluten and other food intolerances, these attributes make rice well-suited for those with special dietary needs.

According to the Food Guide Pyramid, the largest portion of one's diet — 50 percent or more of daily calories — should come from the group at the base of the pyramid: rice, bread, cereal and pasta. Six to 11 servings from this group is recomended. Sound like a lot? It isn't really, not when you consider that ½ cup rice or one slice of bread is a serving.

Rice is naturally convenient to keep and use. Uncooked white rice can be stored on a shelf indefinitely and is ready to use without washing, peeling or chopping. Once opened, rice should be stored in an airtight container. Cooked rice can be stored in the refrigerator in an airtight container up to one week or in the freezer six months.

Cooking with rice stretches food dollars. A ½-cup serving of prepared rice costs less than four cents. If a family likes seasoned rice, mixes made at home cost a fraction of the boxed mixes from the supermarket. A typical packet of rice mix costs $1.25 and makes 2 servings at more than 60 cents per serving. A serving of the same rice mixture from your own kitchen costs less than 10 cents. Best of all, you control ingredients.

DILL-LEMON RICE MIX

- 4 cups uncooked white rice
- 5 tsp. grated lemon peel
- 4 tsp. dill weed
- 2 tsp. dried minced chives
- 8 tsp. instant chicken bouillon granules

Combine rice, lemon peel, dill, chives and bouillon. Store in airtight container.

Habit

May: Get ready for summer's fresh fruit. Pick strawberries. Pluck them straight from their caps to eat. Plant mint to keep them green. Water the lawn an extra time and every week add two different leafy dark greens to salads.

June: The goal for the back yard — and salad bowls — is to keep them green. Water the lawn an extra time and every week add two different leafy dark greens to salads.

July: Try a new sport or exercise, or walk more. If it gets hot, get up a little early for that trot around the block or move it into the mall. You'd be surprised how busy it is early in the morning.

August: Fresh vegetables are hard to avoid, so don't! Use fresh tomatoes to make a pot of homemade pasta sauce. Skip the meat and add 1 or 2 tablespoons olive oil for a taste of the real thing.

September: Add apples to breakfast. Steam them with a little apple juice, sugar and raisins; slice them on cereal, or grab one to eat on the way to work.

October: Somehow, warm food tastes better again. Organize the pantry for efficiency. Mark every can, jar and package with "10-95" for a start at cleaning "house."

November: Be realistic about forthcoming holidays. Dream about meal-type recipes instead of desserts. Plan two meals a week with seafood or less or no meat.

December: Smile a lot. Mean it. One way to do it is to get fresh air with exercise. Let it in the house, too, so people smile back.

Medicine Chest

Home care depends on medicine storage

A properly stocked medicine cabinet helps families stay prepared to handle everyday health problems, as well as emergencies.

Think about where you store these medicines. A bathroom cabinet is less than ideal. Humidity and temperature fluctuations due to baths and showers can weaken the effectiveness and shorten the life of some medications.

The best place to store medicine is in a cool, dry place, such as a closet. Keep medicines on a top shelf, out of the reach of children. Keep the following items in your home:

- Pain relievers, such as aspirin and ibuprofen, are excellent for relieving pain, reducing inflammation and

- reducing fever. Acetaminophen is often the preferred drug for many people, but it is less effective in reducing inflammation.

- Pepto-Bismol or Kaopectate for moderate diarrhea.

- Antacid to reduce stomach pain and gas.

- Laxatives: "Bulk-containing" laxatives are the most natural and their use is preferable to more harsh-acting laxatives.

- Syrup of ipecac, particularly valuable in cases of poisoning. Use only under advice of a doctor or poison control center.

- Thermometer, especially if children are in the home.
- Bandages of various sizes. Gauze and surgical tape are also beneficial in treating minor cuts and abrasions.

Horoscope

Wednesday, Jan. 11
A new benefits policy at your job marks a general evening-to-evening of labor and management groups all over the world! Plan a party, meeting or promotional event with Mercury and Jupiter strolling hand-in-hand, the vibes are great for getting people together. Enrollments soar in all sorts of self-improvement seminars, aerobics classes and higher-education programs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You're running with a crowd that loves to make its own rules. Experience is helpful in new ventures — if you don't have it, get an associate who does. Call home if you are planning to be late.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You're one for in-depth research in subjects that you truly care about — now is the time to concentrate. New jobs come with great benefits. A chance for an inheritance or a big cash windfall is not remote.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)
Stress among associates calls for your cheerful intervention — you lighten the atmosphere wherever you go. New projects go swimmingly if they are started today, particularly if they start from someone else's idea.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
Complications of your life may be causing some regret. Give yourself a chance to get to know new co-workers — they may become important in the near future. Study insurance plans — it's time to sign soon.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You'll get plenty of unsolicited advice over the next few weeks — just when you feel advice is the last thing you need. And if you let others take a look at your original projects, they're bound to have opinions.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Jan. 11)
Your love potential is strong in February — creative new ventures look terrific in March. New ideas, plans and acquaintances are abundant in April. Family matters bring many duties in June. Take on a partnership in July. A promotion, increased prestige and authority add to your influence in August. In November, give to others. In December, a new power cycle begins.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You may be starting a business of your own at home — it's certainly worth a well-considered try. Your usual perfectionist instincts stand you in good stead, as work done today needs to be accurate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Job interviews go great — fun with friends may also be an indirect route to romance. Flirt with a new co-worker at your own risk. You stay cool when unexpected events occur at work, though others panic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
News of a way to add to or save more income comes as a pleasant surprise. Turning opportunity into solid accomplishment is the focus. Home purchases are favored — you know where the bargains are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Stretch those dollars when you shop for a wardrobe. Job interviews are favored. Your communications abilities are strong — others are listening, so have something worthwhile to say.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
At last, your secret heart is open to someone you can trust. Original ideas and relationships with kids are rewarding. Use your imagination in routine matters — a creative touch makes your work stand out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
With plenty of social activity and a worthy cause on your agenda, you're in your element. Don't neglect family matters, though — they need your personal touch. The evening calls for quiet meditation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Don't let friends bend your ear with emotional problems during business hours or you may miss a chance to impress the boss. Sales calls and presentations of ideas can put you in front of the competition.

Fighting Cancer

Below the Belt

Prostate cancer is the second most common cancer in males over 50. According to the American Cancer Society, over 105,000 new prostate cancers will be diagnosed and about 30,000 men will die of the disease this year. Early detection and treatment are crucial to "fighting cancer below the belt."

As a free community service, the physicians of Belleville Medicine, in cooperation with Memorial and St. Elizabeth's Hospitals, are pleased to offer a free prostate cancer screening program.

The Prostate Specific Antigen blood test, or PSA, is a new blood test to detect benign or cancerous activity in the prostate. Free PSA testing will be conducted for males age 50 and over by appointment only. A limited number of appointments can be scheduled on a first-come, first-served basis by calling 234-2120, extension 1575.

A PSA test and a standard rectal exam by a qualified physician are believed to be the optimal prostate cancer detection method. Therefore, participants are strongly encouraged to take advantage of both the free PSA test and rectal exam.

Troop 82 Brownies attend Lock-In

Brownie Troop 82 attended the Lock-In Festival of Giving on Nov. 19 at Holy Family Community Center, along with other Girl Scout troops from Holy Family School.

Each girl brought a nonperishable item, which was donated to the Festival of Giving. The theme for the lock-in was a Hawaiian Christmas. Each Brownie made a lei out of flowers and learned to dance the hula. After snacks, it was "lights out" for Troop 82's first official overnight.

Brownies from Troop 82 who attended were Sara Brewer, Carrie Brown, Emilee Burns, Courtney Dolan, Ashley Hillmer, Katy Hinds, Kati Long, Kelli McFain, Misty Moussette, Karen Miller, Katie Nesbit, Danielle Payne, Beth Shipley and Mary Volougal. Leaders accompanying were Diane McFain, Donna Burns, Kathy Long and Brownie "mom" Margaret Shipley.
